

Dr. Lawless New President Of Trustee Board

By Catherine Allen

Dr. Theodore K. Lawless, Chicago physician, was elected president of the Dillard University Board of Trustees on Friday, October 23, 1959. He succeeds the late Mr. Edgar B. Stern, Sr., who headed the University's governing board from its organization in 1930 until his death on August 24, 1959.

The new president of the Trustee Board was born in Thibodaux, Louisiana, and completed his undergraduate work at Straight College, which was merged with New Orleans University to form Dillard, and at Talladega College. He received his doctorate degree from the University of Kansas and Harvard University. Dr. Lawless attended the University of Freiburg in Germany and received his M.D. degree from Northwestern University.

In addition to his private practice, he is senior attending physician in dermatology and syphilis at Provident Hospital, Chicago. Dr. Lawless is also president of Gentilly Gardens Apartments, an 86 unit model development adjoining the Dillard campus.

Honors bestowed upon Dr. Lawless include the Harmon Award for outstanding work in medicine in 1923 and the Spingarn medal in 1954. Talladega College conferred an honorary doctor of science upon him in 1945, and Bethune-Cookman College gave him an honorary L.L.D. degree in 1952.

Faculty Profile

Dr. John B. Furey

By Lois M. Foucher

One of the most interesting personalities on our faculty and on our campus is Dr. John Furey, associate professor of Political Science. Dr. Furey is interesting because he personifies the old adage: "His bark is worse than his bite." A unique experience can be yours in making this discovery.

Dr. Furey has been at Dillard University since 1954. He received his undergraduate training at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. Both his Master's and Doctor's degrees were conferred by Columbia University.

Like most professors and instructors on campus who are actively interested in the student, Dr. Furey, too, serves as advisor to not just one but to three organizations: The International Relations Club, Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's student chapter. Dr. Furey has also served as University Marshall for two years, a position that he is quite proud to hold.

When asked to comment about the joys and despairs of teaching, here was Dr. Furey's reply:

"The joys of teaching come from those students who realize the excellent opportunity at hand and do their best—not just to study the textbook—but to develop their personalities and their characters to their fullest capacities.

"The most depressing thing about teaching is beating your brains out trying to teach students who fail to realize the great value an education is going to mean to them in their future lives."

Further, Dr. Furey advises students to "Take advantage of the opportunity while you're in school to develop your full potential so that you may lead a full and rewarding life."

On the wall of his office, from a source he has long forgotten, hangs the following quotation:

"Every occasion of misunderstanding and bitterness is for you an opportunity to show a spirit of good will and reconciliation. Every occasion of hostility and hatred on the part of others is for you an opportunity to show a spirit of brotherly love."

Dr. Furey's last remarks were: "If, frequently, I do not live up to this principle, it is because I am made of frail human clay."

Dr. Dent Crowns Loyce Vincent 'Miss Dillard'

By Willie Etta Merrick

The celebration of the 25th Anniversary Homecoming activities was enjoyed by all. The week of October 21, 1959 witnessed the preparation for the actual Homecoming celebrations October 23 and 24.

During the halftime period of the game between Dillard and Texas College, President Dent crowned Loyce Vincent of Port Arthur, Texas as "Miss Dillard" for the 1959-60 school year.

Following the crowning of "Miss Dillard," flowers were presented to her by Miss Annette Lee, "Miss Dillard of 1958-59"; Xavier University; and Mr. Melford Spooner, captain of the Blue Devils, on behalf of the football team.

The McDonogh No. 35 High School Band was presented to the Queen and her court during this halftime period. The Band gave an excellent performance on the field.

Loyce wore a white suit, white hat, blue shoes and bag. Her attendants wore blue suits, blue shoes and bag with white hats and gloves.

The attendants to "Miss Dillard" were Faren Davis, Senior Class; Yvonne Singleton, Junior Class; Barbara Smith, Sophomore Class; and Carrie Grays, Freshman Class. "Miss Dillard" was escorted by Cornelius Merrick, president of the Student Union. The attendants were escorted by Charles Elloie, Ernest Kinchen, Allen Butler and Claude Smith, respectively.

The Queen and her court were entertained at the royal dance which was held in Henson Hall that evening after the game. The faculty, student body and alumni were invited: the attire for the occasion was semi-formal. The procession began at 10:00 p.m. with the presentation of the class queens. They entered in the following manner: Geraldine Richards, Freshman Class; Patricia Evans, Sophomore Class; Elsie Ricks, Junior Class; and Marjorie Ann Jones, Senior Class.

"Miss Dillard" wore a long white gown with white long gloves and her attendants were dressed in short pale blue formals.

Gifts were presented by the various clubs, classes, and organizations. The waltz began and the Queen and her court danced to the enjoyable music of the Royal Dukes of Rhythm.

The decoration of the gymnasium, many souvenirs and the joyful grand march added to the very wonderful royal celebration.

Pre-Alumni Ass'n. To Help UNCF

Because Dillard's contribution to the United Negro College Fund was so small and had never exceeded $500, a group known as the Pre-Alumni Association was established. This year the Pre-Alumni's quota for UNCF is $1000. The group is optimistic about obtaining this amount of money.

The current officers are William Guillory, president; Bruce Robinson, vice president; Rejena Wells, secretary; Donald Fielder, treasurer; Allen Leslie, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Catherine Delandro, financial secretary.

Dillard-Xavier Primed For Annual 'Turkey Day Classic'

Thanksgiving Day is the day for the thirteenth time in the history of the "Turkey Day Classic" football game between Dillard University's mighty and devastating Blue Devils and their long time cross-town rivals, Xavier University's Gold Rush.

This is an annual event staged every Thanksgiving Day between these two great institutions. The idea of a "Turkey Day Classic" was conceived back in the year 1943 between these two schools. Since that year the Gold Rush has dominated the classic. The Blue Devils won their first game of the series in 1948 when they routed the Gold Rush 26-0.

In 1952 a great idea was presented to add more color and rivalry to the contests. A huge bone mounted on a plaque was the reward for the victors, and it became known as the "Bone of Contention." Xavier University has fallen in love with the "Bone of Contention" because it has been in Xavier's trophy case for six of the seven years of its existence. Dillard has had it only once and that was in 1957 when the Blue

Devils fielded one of the finest teams in their history; they edged by Xavier 13-12 in one of the best games of the series. Last year, the Gold Rush regained the bone when they whipped us 14-6.

I know to the freshmen students this is all foreign, and they do not understand what all the excitement is about; but the "Turkey Day Classic" is "The Game of the Year" for both Dillard and Xavier, and the winner of this game is "The King of the City," that is, until basketball season. The competition and rivalry are very strong, and the desire of each team to emerge victorious is its paramount goal.

The "Bone of Contention" has been a coveted prize to the winner of the game each year since

Class Of '61 Contributes $28 To UNCF Drive

Always eagerly responding to the call of a worthy cause, the Junior Class has once again shown that it not only talks about good that can be done, but takes action as well. Many of you remember the activities of the class of '61 in the past two years. From all indications, this will be another year in which the Junior Class will endeavor to make worthy contributions to the progress of the University. Though small in number, the class of '61 is mighty in action.

Homecoming: Santa Filomena Wins First Place

By M. L. Smith and I. Emery

The Homecoming parade for the year of 1959 commenced at 12:00 noon, October 24. All cars were beautifully decorated and passed many persons who waited anxiously to hail "Miss Dillard" and her court.

Upon leaving the campus the parade ascended Gentilly Boulevard to Broad Street; up Broad to London Avenue and then down St. Bernard to North Claiborne. From North Claiborne it went to Melpomene Avenue; then to Simon Boliver, La Salle Street, Washington Avenue to Broad and returned to campus.

"Miss Dillard" and her court led the parade and were followed by the different class queens and their attendants, as well as several campus organizations.

After the cars returned to the campus they paraded around Alumni Stadium.

The Santa Filomena Club's car won first place. This car was quite picturesque, having red and white roses as a background for the artistic lettering of the club's name.

The second place winner, The Florida Club, used citrus fruits as a theme for its decoration.

The Baptist Student Union and the Ivy Leaf Club received honorable mention.

Class Presidents All Hail From Louisiana

By William Banks

All four of the class presidents of Dillard University are natives of Louisiana.

The head of the Senior Class is Charles Elloie, a biology major, from New Orleans. Mr. Elloie is also editor of the yearbook, Le Diable Bleu. Other officers of the Senior Class are William Guillory, vice-president; Mary Walker, secretary; Melford Spooner, treasurer; Allen Leslie, parliamentarian; and John Lee, sergeant-at-arms. Dean Cope serves as advisor for the class.

Ernest Kinchen, of Lafayette, Louisiana, is the president of the Junior Class. Mr. Kinchen was a delegate to the World Youth Festival in Austria this summer. Richard Tankerson, vice-president; Lois Smith, secretary; Eugene Johnson, treasurer; Leonard Washington, parliamentarian; and Melvin Sylvester, chaplain, compose the executive department of the Junior Class. Miss Vivian D. Counts, dean of women, serves as class advisor.

Alan Butler, a graduate of St. Augustine High School in New Orleans, fills the position of president of the Sophomore Class. Bruce Robinson serves as vice-president. The class also elected Lillian Stafford, secretary; Joyce Cohen, treasurer; Ruffin LeBrane, parliamentarian; and Purcell Church, chaplain for this school year. Mrs. E. Segre of the Education Division is advisor.

This year's Freshman Class elected Claude Smith, a graduate of J. S. Clark High School, New Orleans, president. Mr. Smith plans to concentrate in the Natural Sciences. The vice-president, Ronald Henderson, is another science major. Mr. Henderson calls Chicago "home." William Banks, III, Elvinor Adams, Nathaniel Hendricks, and Byran Arnett serve the class as parliamentarian, secretary, treasurer and chaplain, respectively.

EDITORIAL—

During this time of the year, many of us are eagerly looking forward to Christmas and forgetting that there is a "Thanksgiving Day." The purpose of this day was, according to the Pilgrims, to thank the Lord for having been so good to them.

What then, are we to be thankful for? We should be thankful for everything: this land, life, happiness, people, etc. Yet there are those of us who forget our obligation to our Creator. Raise the following questions as you look forward to "Thanksgiving Day":

Did I thank the Lord today
For the blessings He sent my way?
Or did I, as others, fail to renew
My reverence to Him long overdue?
Or did I, as the business man, say
"Thanks, Lord" in a hurry and run away?
Or did I, as one with ready cash
Push aside my Lord in a dash?
Or did I, as a selfish person, stand
Hoarding my goods but lending not a hand?
Or did I, as a thankful servant, yea,
Bow on my knees and thank Him today?

EDITORIAL—Something To Cherish

What is there for me to cherish in college? Perhaps you have asked this question.

Unfortunately, the college life of today's student has begun and ended leaving him with little to remember. The step from a doubtful, frightened freshman to a sophisticated, omniscient senior is an incredibly short one.

Many students merely look forward to receiving a degree. Therefore, from their entrance to graduation they concentrate on the single idea of a degree. This obsession becomes and ends in itself, and consequently their college life is worthless.

One's days as a college student can indeed be exciting, informational and meaningful. To experience the splendor of youth mingled with the contentment of humbleness while developing an inquiring attitude is noble indeed. The dedicated student who devotes his time to his studies will be able to reflect on his college years because he has Something to Cherish.

EDITORIAL—Woes Of Pledgeship

The foremost criterion, it would appear, for becoming a member of a Greek Letter Organization is that one be compatible to the group in which he seeks admission. The organization is a tradition and traditions resist change. Therefore, a pledgee must be converted to the peculiarities of the group. This is accomplished voluntarily on the part of the pledgee, or the organization will initiate the change. In either alternative there is a legislation of character.

Just as Greek Letter Organizations resist change, individuals are, also, apathetic about being conformed. Those who are very desirous of becoming a Greek have little difficulty in overcoming this impediment. The others who refuse to comply to the wishes of the group yield their pledgeship status.

It can be said in sum, "as birds of a feather flock together," in the same way those who want to join fraternities join, and those who do not stay out.

Elaine Boliver, "Miss Courtbouillon 1959-60"

Elaine Lazette Boliver, who is a sophomore majoring in Political Science, reigns as "Miss Courtbouillon 1959-60." Elaine, who is a pleasant person, is well liked by the Dillard Family. Though, if one were to encounter her, he would conclude immediately that she is very quiet.

Elaine is a graduate of the Booker T. Washington High School in Houston, Texas. At Washington she was a very active student. She participated in the following activities: president of the Student Council, 1957-58; president of the Booster Club; member of the Aquilla Chapter of the National Honor Society; feature editor of the yearbook; and was City-District-State co-champion in debating in the state of Texas. Her civic affairs included: youth chairman of the United Negro College Fund for the city of Houston in 1958; a member of the YWCA Youth Council; and a member of Jordan Grove Baptist Church.

At Dillard Elaine is affiliated with the following organizations: Texas Club; vice president of the

Spotlight

By Del Rita Bourgeois

The Spotlight highlights the personality Douglas Talmadge "Blitz" Baker. Mr. Baker is majoring in History.

Douglas is a graduate of Kingston School of Boys, Kingston, Massachusetts.

"Blitz," as he is called because he was born in a blizzard, is a very active member of the Dillard Family. Last year he was the winner of the Best Student of Drama Award for the years 1958-59. He was assistant director of two major productions "Tallest Baby On The Mississippi" and "Our Town." His present positions in extra curricular activities are: president, Dillard Players' Guild; assistant editor of the school yearbook, Le Diable Bleu; secretary of Hartzell Hall Dormitory Council; chairman of National Program Competition for International Relations Club; a member of the Social and Homecoming Committees; and Pre-Alumni chairman of the United Fund Drive.

Douglas, who is indebted to his parents for his musical training, has a devoted interest in music and is an organ student of Mrs. R. T. Cureau here at Dillard. He likes jazz and, of course, Broadway Musicals.

Mr. Baker, a rather opinionated lad, prides himself on having had "Dinner at Antoine's," a very exclusive restaurant in New Orleans' historical French Quarter.

He says that travel to him is the most interesting and educational as well as entertaining experience. His most rewarding experience has been his work with the National Polio Foundation. He encourages people to give to the United Fund.

Douglas Baker's future plans include entering the Law School of either Harvard or Fordham University. He hopes to attend the University of Oslo during the summer of 1960.

Social Whirl

The Homecoming activities began with the annual Alumni Banquet on Friday, October 23, 1959. "Miss Dillard" wore a royal blue after-five dress with rhinestone jewelry and glass shoes.

The Chairman of the Homecoming Committee, John Lee, worked faithfully to make the Homecoming events a success; our thanks go to him. Douglas Baker, sophomore, is to also receive our thanks for the untiring efforts on his part to make the dance a success. The dance was one of splendor with green, silver, and white decorations and excellent music by the Royal Dukes of Rhythm.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

I hold to be a mature individual. This would mean that I have accepted the responsibilities of a matured person. I, therefore, fall heir to the privileges possessed by such a person. I feel that being herded about as cattle is a definite encroachment on my dignity as an individual in general, and as a matured Dillard student in particular.

I am given to understand that the students who were here at the initiation of mandatory Chapel attendance exhausted their facilities of protestation. This availed them nothing. Mandatory Chapel attendance, then, was accepted as the common run of things of campus life. Now, we are instructed to sit up front in Chapel. Just where will this regimentation end? At mandatory uniform dress???

Granted that there is just reason for having students take the front seats in Chapel. They facilitate seat-getting by late-comers. But is this the best method for getting the student body seated before Chapel begins?

It would seem that this "herding" would be circumvented by having the instructors release their classes as scheduled. Or, if this does not remedy the situation, the Chapel time should be a little later to accomodate the late-comers.

If we students fail to hold dear that which is ours, we will find, to our dismay, ourselves lacking any vestige of free expression of campus life. Fellow students "It is not the way the wind blows; it's how you have set the sails."

Respectfully yours,
EUGENE S. JOHNSON

On March 30, 1870 the Fifteenth Amendment went into effect guaranteeing the right to vote to citizens of the United States regardless of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude." Since that date, cases have been brought before the courts to test the validity of these "legal" attempts to circumvent the amendment.

In case after case from Nixon v. Herndon (1927) to Terry v. Adams (1953) "legal" restrictions employed by several of the Southern states have been declared unconstitutional. One by one the machinery for disfranchisement—white primaries, "grandfather clauses"—have been eliminated. By 1920, poll taxes in Louisiana and five other Southern states had been abolished as a prerequisite to voting. In 1949 in the case of United States v. Classic, the primary (in Louisiana) was declared as an election; hence, Negroes could not be barred.

This was a big step forward in gaining political recognition and a heretofore "lily-white" title—"registered voter." This new gain meant that Negroes were then free to participate in the one-party-political system common to Louisiana. Thus, the biggest hurdle had been crossed and the Negro was the victor, or so it would appear.

Statistics, however, do not bear out this "victory." All qualified Negroes are not registered voters. Granted, registering in northern Louisiana is not an easy task, but New Orleans residents cannot hide behind this excuse. Not only can the Negro in New Orleans register without interference or fear of intimidation, but there is an office set up in City Hall to aid the prospective registrant. Moreover, organizations both civic and social have set up "schools" to aid the individual who is desirous of registering.

Negroes have had since 1870 to prepare themselves for the coming gubernatorial election. Will they sell themselves short because they have of their own volition refused to take advantage of an opportunity to participate actively in self-government? Or, will Negroes show Rainach and others like him that candidates for office can no longer afford to ignore the Negro's political power and ability to swing elections? The Negro in New Orleans has a choice: either he can make segregationists swallow their words or he can allow the segregationists to continue to enforce upon him second class citizenship.

The first choice is made automatically by refusing to register and vote in the coming election. The second choice is to boast before the world a New Negro qualified, informed and registered.

Throughout the first half the Rust College Bearcats steamed over the Blue Devils, scoring once in the first quarter and twice in the second. Timmony Allen, Rust's swift halfback, accounted for two of Rust's TD's, and Les Jones scampered into the end zone for the third. After B. Bynum kicked the conversion, Rust led the Devils 19-0.

But with a Conference championship at stake, the undaunted Blue Devils gave the Rust College Homecoming fans an exhibition of football they will never forget.

Fisk Bulldogs Defeat Devils

By Milton Lewis

The Fisk University Bulldogs routed our Blue Devils 20-0 at Fisk.

The game was a hard fought battle going into the third quarter, the score being 0-0. Late in the third frame the Bulldogs began making their move. The ice was finally broken when Fisk's speedy halfback Don Knight raced 17 yards for the digit after a successful downfield drive.

The Bulldogs scored again midway in the final quarter when back Theo Mitchell journeyed 27 yards for the score. By this time the Bulldogs were well on their way to the victory. Moments later a tackle, Robert Hale, intercepted a Blue Devil aerial on the Blue Devils' 35-yard line and stumbled his way down to the 10-yard line. Oswald Sweeney took it over for the final score.

Homecoming Game Thrills Alumni, Fans; Dillard Makes Gallant Stand, Loses 8-6

This was the game upon which a tie for Conference honors depended. This was the game the Blue Devils had to win.

Coach Martin's Blue Devils came to life late in the second quarter with their explosive aerial attack. Two passes netted 59 yards, when William Clark hit Dion Greenlee twice: first for 51 yards, then for eight yards and paydirt.

The third period found both teams unwilling to yield ground, but the Blue Devils exploded again in the fourth and final quarter when Billy Williams passed to Greenlee, who ran 11 yards for the TD. Then, with less than two minutes remaining, quarterback Williams moved the ball 46 yards to the Rust 6-yard line, where Irvin Overton carried it over for the clincher TD and the co-championship honors.

The mighty Steers from Texas College, who thought by many would breeze by our Blue Devils, found that all such ideas should never be conceived again, for they had to fight like they never have before to come from behind to shade the gallant Blue Devils 8-6 at Alumni Field, October 24, in our Homecoming Game.

The Tyler Texans came from behind in the third frame to overcome a six-point half time score held by the Blue Devils. Dillard halted a first period drive by the Steers when the Devils' gang tackled Steers' back Willie Jones, causing him to fumble on Dillard's five-yard line. This is the rough-and-tough type of football that was played by both teams. Consequently, there were fumbles throughout the game by both the Steers and the Blue Devils.

It was a fumble on the nine-yard line in the second quarter by the Steers that set up the lone Blue Devils' touchdown. The Devils moved from the nine-yard to the four-yard line with Nelson

Meyers carrying. The New Orleans product went over from the four-yard line for the score. Eugene "The Toe" Polk, a Detroit, Michigan contribution, attempted to kick the extra point which went wide of the bar. The Blue Devils had been stopped earlier in the same quarter when they fumbled on the Steers' one-yard line.

The Steers struck the fatal blow early in the third period when Otis Henry, a 175 pound quarterback, roched a 25-yard aerial to Adell Mills. Mills was downed on the Blue Devils' six-yard line. Halfback John Watson swept right end for the score. Henry ran the point after touchdown.

Vespers Aid DU's Study Of Values

By Brenda M. Hatcher

On October 11, Bishop Willis J. King, of the New Orleans area, a familiar person to the Dillard family, spoke on "First Things First." The gist of his message was that if we first seek the kingdom of heaven, then all other things would come unto us.

Mr. Brown of Jackson State College exchanged pulpits with our Dean of the Chapel, Dr. Gandy, on October 18. His message was "The Winds of God." He stated that if we had a challenge or an obstacle in our way, if we took God in our heart, he would guide us through all storms and winds.

Vesper services were not held October 25 in the Chapel. However, Founders' Day was held on the terrace of Kearny Hall. Dr. Buell G. Gallagher was speaker. He stressed the daring and unique contribution the late Edgar B. Stern made by identifying himself unequivocally with the destiny of a Negro university.

Dr. Hubert King, Professor of Preaching, The McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, Illinois, spoke to us on November 1. His theme was "Use what you have to the fullest because the talents that God gave you are to be used." He stated, "If you don't use it, you will lose it."

The past Vesper services have contributed much to the achievement of our spiritual goals here at Dillard and should help greatly in the University project which, as a follow-up of the summer Danforth team, is studying values in the University.

Juilliard Quartet Thrills Dillardites

Playing before a large and appreciative audience, which filled the main auditorium of Lawless Memorial Chapel and overflowed to the balcony, the Juilliard String Quartet thrilled Dillardites on Friday evening, November 13 with a memorable performance.

Appearing on the Lyceum Program were Robert Mann and Isidore Cohen, violinists; Raphael Hillyer, violist, and Claus Adams, cellist.

Mrs. Marilyn H. Davidson, assistant professor of music, evaluating the performance, praised the unity of the artists, the fine nuances and the true tonal effects. Said Mrs. Davidson, "A very thrilling experience, and one we don't very often get a chance to hear."

NEW BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY

Our Dillard library receives a host of new books each month and we, as students, are neglecting these books. Why? Is it that we do not know that they are in the library? If this is our excuse, then this article, which will appear regularly, is designed to keep us up to date on the recent publications in the library.

Status Seekers by Vance O. Packard is an exploration of class behavior in America and the hidden barriers that affect you, your community and your future.

This book is Packard's follow up of his Hidden Persuaders. A central point of Packard's is the importance of the college degree as an element in status mobility. He emphasizes the responsibility of business and industry to insure that all our best talent get the requisite education.

Trumbull Park, a novel by Frank London Brown, describes what happens when a small group of Negro families move out of the tenements in which they have spent their lives into a new housing development where white families have already settled and where anti-Negro feeling is very strong. The narrator, Louis (Buggy) Martin, is a forthright young man who loves his wife and their two children. In Buggy's final scene, he and a few companions prove their right to walk as free men through the streets of their Chicago community, Trumbull Park.

Other books you will find useful are The Coming of the New Deal by Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr.; Advice and Consent, a novel of Washington Politics by Allen Drury; and The Elements of Style by William Strunk, Jr.

1952. The idea was conceived on the campus of Xavier University by Mr. Raymond Floyd, then publicity director of Xavier University. He suggested it to the Athletic Committee of both Xavier and Dillard that the "Bone" be adopted as a pawn and symbol for the victor of each annual Dillard-Xavier encounter.

Poem By Editor In New Anthology

A poem written by Lorraine Williams, editor of Courtbouillon, was published by the Wanderlust, a magazine edited by A. Karl Austin, Jr. The poem on Thomas Wolfe is entitled "The Birth of a Genius," and appeared in the October 1959 issue of the Wanderlust.

Since most of the contributors to this issue of Wanderlust were older and more experienced professional artists and writers, the honor and prestige gained by Miss Williams both for herself and for Dillard University take on added significance.
